

ROMANCE OF SOCIETY BUD IS BROKEN

Invitations to the wedding of Miss Colburn, daughter of a Lynn banker, to a young man of the exclusive West Side of Worcester have been recalled. She is reported to be en route to Europe with a chum. The wedding was set for tonight. (Photo by Grace Barry, Lynn.)

MISS MILDRED COLBURN

GIRL SAVES FIVE IN MALDEN

Awakened by Coal Gas Fumes, She Rouses the Family and Calls Doctor

Helen Crowley is fourteen but has grown-up sense. She saved her parents, two grandparents and uncle from coal gas asphyxiation today at their home, No. 219 Salem street, Malden.

Sick herself from the fumes, she staggered through the house and opened all windows, telephoned an emergency call to Malden "central" for a doctor in a hurry, then started to work on her unconscious grandmothers.

Miss Fay Barnes of No. 19 Bishop road, Malden, telephone operator, received the call and had Dr. Samuel Hoberman at the Crowley home in a hurry, so that everybody was saved.

Miss Barnes is credited with an "assist," as baseball writers express it.

Helen awakened sick from gas from soft coal in a stove in the bedroom occupied by her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kahn. Helen found Mrs. Kahn unconscious and Mr. Kahn stupified.

In another chamber Helen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Crowley, were yielding to the fumes, as was her uncle, Meyer Kahn, in a third chamber.

When her grandfather tried to rise he was so weak he fell and landed his forehead. When Dr. Hoberman arrived he had to work quite a while upon the unconscious grandmother before she was revived and out of danger. Then he treated the others.

Canton (By A. P.)—Gov. Talcott, still in Shanghai, has appointed the Hon. Min civil governor here. Foreign consulates also were notified that Yang Hsi-fen assumed office as commissioner of finance on January 24.

Autocracy Usurping Our Liberties, Sen. Walsh Says

New York, Jan. 25.—Autocracy tending toward Prussianism is being substituted for individual liberty in the United States, Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts declared in an address at the annual dinner of the New York Hotel Men's Association.

"The psychology of it seems to be," he said, "a tendency toward regulation of our actions and morals, substituting for our consciousness the legislative power of the State." He cited State regulation of school and said that the designation of the length of bed sheets.

One of the causes, he declared, "is the justifying of the illegitimate spirit among the people."

BARUCH FAVORS FORD'S MUSCLE SHOALS OFFER

By the Associated Press. Washington, Jan. 25.—Acceptance of Henry Ford's offer of 100,000 shares, provided no better offer is available and conditioned on the actual production of 100,000 tons of steel at the rate of 40,000 tons a year, is recommended by the committee made in the American Farm Bureau Federation by Bernard M. Baruch, its chairman of the War Industries Board.

BULLETS MAKE CIRCLE AROUND HEART

Little River, N. J., Jan. 25.—Police today were trying to identify today the body of a well-dressed man found on the seven bridge road near here with five bullet wounds in his chest. The bullet had made a complete circle around the man's heart. The police believe that the man had been murdered in an automobile and then taken to the road.

WEDDING STOPPED CALLER SAYS 5 GIRL GREEN MURDER

WEDDING OF LYNX GIRL CALLED OFF

Banker's Daughter on Way to Europe; Invitations to Nuptials Recalled

Invitations for the wedding tonight of Miss Mildred Colburn, daughter of a Lynn banker, to a young man of the exclusive West Side of Worcester, have been recalled.

Miss Colburn has departed on a trip with a girl chum. Although the route has been kept secret, it is said she has gone to Montreal to embark for Europe.

To a member of her bride club in Lynn, Miss Colburn confided before her departure:

"We have agreed to disagree." And that unsatisfactory explanation is the only one so far given of the broken romance which has been a Lynn society chattering.

BANKER'S DAUGHTER. Miss Colburn is twenty-four-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Colburn of No. 7 Sagamore street, Lynn.

Her father is president of the Manufacturers' National Bank of Lynn, member of Lynn Chamber of Commerce and otherwise prominent in big business affairs of the Shore City.

Miss Colburn was educated from the Episcopal High school, completed her schooling at a private institution in Pennsylvania.

She returned home and became active in affairs of the younger set. She was hostess at numerous charity functions. Red Cross and American Relief benefits and similar society functions.

About a year ago she gave a dinner to a large number of her friends at which her engagement was announced. She displayed an elaborate ring with a two-karat diamond surrounded by emeralds.

Freighter Is Caught in Ice Field

Hallifax, N. S., Jan. 25.—The British freighter Calumna, which left Halifax for Portland, Me., January 16, has been caught in a great ice field off Cape Race, a radio message from the steamer to the Marine and Fisheries Department reported today.

The message, signed by Captain Berlin, said the ice field extended north and south as far as the eye could reach and appeared to be about eighteen miles across, east to west.

The Calumna was believed to be in no immediate danger. Her position was given as latitude 48.02, longitude 49.15.

N. Y. - NEWPORT AIR SERVICE TO START SOON

Newport, R. I., Jan. 25.—A New York-Newport air service promoted by T. S. Butler, Talbot, Harold R. Van derbilt and Vincent Astor, has been advanced sufficiently to announce schedules.

Four passenger machines capable of making the trip in an hour and a half, will be used. Most of the available seats for the scheduled sailings have been guaranteed, it is said.

SOLD ROCK DYED BLACK FOR COAL

New York, Jan. 25.—Vincent H. Olsen, Brooklyn coal salesman, was arrested today on a charge of selling 100 tons of crushed rock, dyed black as coal. The charge was preferred by Boston brothers, coal dealers, who declare they paid him $14,000 for it.

Olsen denied guilt, declaring he acted in good faith in taking the order for the new defect Tidewater Fuel Company, which made delivery.

MT. MATSES, ALASKA, IS IN ERUPTION

Anchorage, Alaska, Jan. 25 (AP).—The Associated Press—Mount Mates, near Mount Shashadine and Pavloff, which were recently in eruption, has been emitting large volumes of smoke, according to a wireless message from the Lower Alaska Peninsula. This activity of Mates was accompanied by two shocks here yesterday morning.

The first broke bottles in drug stores and dishes in homes. The second was less severe.

CONFESSION OF MURPHY RELATED

Reporter Relates How Corvick Signed Paper Admitting Tax Store Killings

Details of Jesse Murphy's alleged confession to the murders of Edward T. Foley and Ordway R. Hall, tea store managers, were related on the witness stand today by Walter "Duff" Mahan, Boston newspaper reporter.

A quoted courtroom heard Mahan's story of how, shortly after Charles L. Hollins had been convicted on the murder charge, Mahan and Herbert McElroy went to the State Hospital for the Criminal Insane at Fairview, Pa., and saw Murphy.

Mahan related how Murphy showed no sign of recognition of either himself or McElroy, and refused to answer any question, until he said to him:

"Jesse, one of the Hollins boys is going to stay in prison for life and another will be executed with an eye unless you make known whatever you know about the murders of Foley and Hall."

SIGNED CONFESSION. Mahan then wrote on a piece of paper:

"I know Charles Hollins did not kill Edward Foley."

Murphy, who had come into the room accompanied by five guards, took the note, Mahan said, and went over to the window to read it. He hesitated a moment and then signed the note, Mahan testified.

Then, Mahan said, Murphy wrote a note of his own, which he signed. The note read:

"I killed Edward Foley. I used a Smith & Wesson to do it with. I threw the revolver over the western avenue bridge."

In his alleged confession Murphy said that after the murders had been committed he fled Boston on the Cambridge Line, which, he said, left at midnight and proceeded on its route via Detroit.

FAILED TO IDENTIFY. George E. Markson, a United States marshal, testified that on the day referred to the Continental Limited left at noon, not at midnight, and went via Cleveland instead of Detroit.

French Threaten Bombardment

Dusseldorf, Jan. 25.—(By the Associated Press)—Two more French army corps are being rushed to the Ruhr from Alsace-Lorraine. Martial law is threatened. "Tell your people they must refrain from any attack upon our troops or we shall open fire upon the rest of the city," said General Fouanier to the burgomaster here.

Dusseldorf, Jan. 26 (By International News Service).—Violent anti-French riots, in which several persons were hurt, broke out here again today.

The flames of anti-French wrath, smoldering since an angry mob was dispersed last night, flared up anew at the sight of French cavalry passing through the streets.

The German hurried across at the French horsemen. The French fired into the air with their carbines and drove their horses into the crowd, dispersing it.

Tanks rolled through Dusseldorf on route for the Oberhausen district, where the striking German mine, mill and railway workers have been causing much trouble. Sixty Reich and French troops are stationed at Oberhausen. The Belgians have had several collisions with strikers.

Serious riots are reported at Dusseldorf where mobs congregated in front of the coal syndicate's former office.

The disturbances followed the arrival of Fritz Thyssen and the other five directors who were tried by French court martial at Mayence. Sixty Reich and French troops are stationed at Oberhausen. The Belgians have had several collisions with strikers.

Three more irregulars were executed by Free State forces, according to an announcement made here. Their names were given as Cunningham, Conroy and Kelly.

Irish Peace Party Splits Over Arms

Dublin, Jan. 25 (By International News Service).—The Irish convention called at Lonsdale to seek peace broke down today. The Free State delegates said the Dublin government was "ready to make peace, but not until the irregulars gave up their arms."

Telegraph communication with the south was cut off. The Dandrum barracks were burned.

DECLARES OWN LIFE MENACED

Gregory Korey Says Woman He Slept in Bed Had Threatened to Kill Him

How he walked into a woman's bedroom, where she was lying with her nine-year-old son, and calmly told her that he was afraid she intended to kill him and "rather than have that happen, I will kill you," was told in Chelsea Court today by Gregory Korey, charged with the murder of Mrs. Vera Perlovsky, of No. 114 Second street, Chelsea.

Korey pleaded guilty and was held, without bail, for the Grand Jury.

On the witness stand Korey confessed to one of the most blood-soaked murders on record. He told of having lured Mrs. Perlovsky the sum of five in small amounts and how she did not pay it back.

SAYS LIFE THREATENED. "Yesterday I asked her for the money and told her I was going to sue," he said. "She said to me, 'You'd better stay here if you want to live.' I said I was determined to stay."

"OTHER WOMAN" LOVED FLANDERS' CHILDREN

RISKED REPUTATION TO "MOTHER" THEM, SHE SAYS

Can a woman's love of children be strong enough to make her risk her reputation for their sake?

Mrs. Hazel E. Smith, attractive young housekeeper named as co-respondent by Mrs. Mildred Flanders in her suit for divorce from Percy Flanders, declares it can.

Her attachment to the Flanders children and her determination that they should not be left "motherless" was what forced her to remain alone in the house with Flanders for nearly a year after Mrs. Flanders had given up her place as mother and housekeeper, according to Mrs. Smith's testimony in the East Cambridge Divorce Court.

At the time she was "mothering" the Flanders children and caring for the house of Flanders, her own little son was boarding at a relative's home, Mrs. Smith admitted.

The attractive young housekeeper was recently divorced by her husband, according to the records introduced in the Flanders divorce. The terms of the unique compact by which it was agreed that Mrs. Flanders would live in her husband's home and be treated as a sister were by Flanders when he took the stand for the first time. Mrs. Flanders was somewhat of a dour in the divorce, he said. Her mother-in-law and mother was unbearably irksome until she saw a younger and more attractive woman occupying the place she had discarded, her husband declared.

"She was always cold by nature. She only tolerated me, and when ever I kissed her, she shuddered and tried to avoid it. I think she is capable of anything except the most casual sisterly affection," Flanders said.

For the first time since his wedding he learned the meaning of a happy, harmonious home when his wife departed and the housekeeper came, he said. The children were happier and the house was managed with more system, and the atmosphere was all a delightful home should be.

Flanders admitted that he had lost all his love for his wife since the housekeeper came, and that his attempts at reconciliation with her had been a matter of policy.

Mrs. H. Rockwood, an investigator for the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children, to which Mrs. Flanders applied for help because her husband spanked one of the children, told of taking both the husband and wife for examination at the Boston Psychopathic Hospital.

The case was to be resumed to-day.

EVERETT SAILOR FOUND DEAD IN BED
Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 26.—Philip Rodemus, thirty-three years old, a sailor, whose home is believed to be at No. 119 Beach street, Everett, Mass.—a slip of paper containing that address having been found in his billfold—was found dead in bed in a North Tonawanda hotel. His death is attributed to natural causes.

EAST DEDHAM MAN GETS "WARNING" NOTE
A note ordering him to leave town was turned over to the police today by Fred E. Parrington of No. 75 High street, East Dedham. It was the second received by Parrington within the week.

The notes were not signed. The police are inclined to believe both notes were written by neighborhood boys.

STRIKE IN DRESS TRADE FEARED

New York, Jan. 26.—Fear that a strike in the dress trade is destined for February 1 is expressed in business circles.

More than 35,000 members of the Dress and Waist Makers Union may be thrown out of work next week unless the employers renew wage negotiations broken off when the union's demands were curtly rebuffed.

Girls and women will be principally affected by a walkout.

The principal point at issue is the demand of the union that a weekly wage scale be adopted in place of the piece work now in vogue under an agreement which expires January 31.

Shanghai, Jan. 25 (By the Associated Press)—Dr. Paul S. Reisch, counselor to the Chinese government, died this morning at 11 o'clock.

CHURCH SPLITS IN ROW OVER DR. GRANT

By WILLIAM RANDOLPH, Comptroller News Service.

New York, Jan. 26.—The future in religious circles over the utterances of the Rev. Dr. Percy S. Grant, announced in a declaration to the Episcopal Church diocese today when the clear-cut answer of Dr. Grant to Bishop Manning's demand that he recant or resign was made public.

With a heavy trial for Dr. Grant still a possibility as a result of his answer in which he neither recanted nor resigned, but rather affirmed his disbeliefs in the miraculous elements of the Bible, the congregation and vestry of the fashionable Fifth Avenue Church is openly taking sides today.

The "aerial mines" are slowly moving masses of explosives, supported by wings, traveling under wireless control at a great altitude, which can be maneuvered into any position and made to fall at any exact spot.

Vast tubular containers, laden with incendiary matter or poison gas, and supported in the air by deeply-arched metal wings, are being tested by the "aerial mine" itself, as it creeps through the sky, sends back to its base a constant stream of merrily automatic wireless signals which enable the wireless engineers to plot out on a chart precisely where the "mine" is located at any given moment.

LIBERALS BACK DR. GRANT.
The liberal forces are rallying about Dr. Grant while lining up with Bishop Manning are the orthodox and conservative factions.

The letter of Dr. Grant doesn't change the situation existing since, in a sermon, denied the divinity of Christ.

Bishop Manning, after reading Dr. Grant's reply, would make no comment.

"I have nothing to say," was his only remark.

Dr. Grant's letter does not recant, contains no offer to resign from the church and makes no apology for the "heretic sermons."

$50,000 FOR 6 WEEKS AS VAUDEVILLE STAR
New York, Jan. 26.—What is probably the largest salary ever paid to a singer for appearing in a combination vaudeville and motion picture theatre will be given Dorothy Jordan, dramatic soprano of the Chicago Opera Company, who has signed a contract to appear next Spring for six weeks in Marcus Loew's coast circuit of theatres.

Miss Jordan's contract is for six weeks, and it is said to call for a total salary of $50,000 for the six weeks, with an option on her services for another six weeks at the same figure.

MOTHER FINDS BOY BURNING TO DEATH
Six-year-old Raymond Collier is dying at the City Hospital of burns caused by the body he received when his clothes caught fire at his home.

He was alone playing near the kitchen range when his clothes were ignited by a live coal. His mother removed his burning garments and he was rushed to the hospital. Raymond is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Collier of No. 4 Johns court, Rosbury.

BONAR LAW FINDING FAT JOBS FOR POOR OLD BRITISH DUKES

TREASURY PITFALLS FALLEN DUKES

High-Salaried Posts Give the Former Dual Aristocrats a Chance to Pay Their Taxes

London, Jan. 26.—The movement for the reclamation of the poor dukes of Old England has begun. Bonar Law is saving them by making them members of the ministry.

Imagine the plight of these poor noblemen. They become, averaging about a million dollars annually ten years ago, daily depleted. War taxation, coupled with Lloyd George's land duties have brought their incomes down to starting point. Moreover, Lloyd George's invention has brought their standing in popular esteem down to nothing.

HARD TIMES FOR DUKES.

Times have been hard for the poor dukes. A generation ago they were regarded as semi-royal. Common everyday people met them at an angle of forty-five degrees and were ready to bow their heads in order to make the dual acquaintance.

Now all is changed. Lloyd George has it in mind to bring the descendants of thieves and robbers "down to earth" by taxing them. Then he put heavy duties on their estates.

They simply had to struggle along and pay taxes. The culmination came when the Duke of Oxford excommunicated the one-time great Duke of Marlborough on account of a "theological difference." After that dukes were as O'Brien said, "just there a penny."

But the weather broke and a hero came to their rescue. Bonar Law, becoming Prime Minister, took pity and gathered them under his wing.

GIVEN WELL-PAID JOBS.

The Duke of Devonshire, noted for his marvelous gift of alms, no longer in receipt of his pay as Governor-General of Canada, is made Secretary of the Colonies with £10,000 a year. The Duke of Northumberland, who sold his Scottish estates to buy land in Canada, was rewarded with the post of under secretary for air and a substantial salary to accompany it.

Bryce Allans to Remain in France Until May, Says Betty Alden

By BETTY ALDEN.

NOT even the thought of the season's second Assembly could keep Mr. and Mrs. Bryce Allan away from their beloved France any longer. Though the Allans have a town house on Beacon street and a summer place at Beverly, their Boston friends see not a great deal of them. The answer—as we have intimated before—is France, whither the former Anna Paley and her husband sailed a week ago to remain probably until May at least. Accompanying them was Mrs. Allan's sister, Mrs. Guy Norman, formerly of Boston and now of Washington, who has a North Shore place near the Allan estate.

When Mr. and Mrs. Allan returned from abroad some time last summer, after an absence of several years, there was no end of a flurry along the Shore. Immediately numerous matrons of the exclusive colony "got busy" and turned hostesses for all sorts of affairs in honor of the Allans. It could hardly be otherwise, for the one-time Miss Paley, as one of the leading spirits of Boston's all-important Assemblies, is naturally an important figure in the Hub.

However, the Allans remained here long enough, at least, for the first Assembly, held on the fourth of the month at the Copsey Plaza. Since this was the first Assembly in some five or six years—events being given up during the war—nearly took an even keener than usual interest. Mrs. Allen, by the way, was in the receiving line, being a member of the reception committee along with the Messiahs Nathaniel Thayer, Hayward Warren and Edward Brandages.

Appropos of the Assemblies, the second of those widely-heralded events comes on February 3, also at the Copsey Plaza.

AMONG the most recent to join the Boston Simpkins, Sr., who's staying at the Hotel Kimwood. Her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Simpkins ("Min" Penno), are living in her absence at the place in Beverly Farms, where they are among the jolliest members of the younger married set of the Shore's year-round colony.

Speaking of Mrs. Simpkins reminds me that I saw her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Nat Simpkins, Jr., and the latter's mother, Mrs. John E. Thorne, at the opera the other night. With her black hair, dark eyes and brilliant coloring, the former Olivia Thorne-like made the stunner of figures in her all-white costume of soft lace and mink and a rich cape of ermine. Never since the death of her husband—then an aide to General Edwards in France—has Mrs. Simpkins, Jr., been seen in anything but black or white. During the summer months she and her mother, Mrs. John E. Thorne, McAlpine and Mr. and Mrs. Julian St. C. Schenck. Later they took their guests to the latter's home, where they have the box of Mr. and Mrs. Girard Foster during the latter's absence.

WINS $2,500 FOR LOSS OF WIFE'S AFFECTIONS

ANBURN, Jan. 26.—A verdict for $2,500 against Herbert C. Howell of Auburn was awarded Charles E. Smith, also of Auburn, by a Supreme Court jury in his suit alleging alienation of his wife's affections. Howell is a salesman for a local brush factory.

The defendant is settled in seeing Howell and Mrs. Edith Smith together in Waterbury, Ct., and Springfield, Mass.

H. M. WHITNEY DIES AT HOME IN BROOKLINE

Henry M. Whitney, Boston capitalist, civil leader and renowned road builder, is dead at his home, No. 35 Paul street, Brookline.

H. M. Whitney

Mr. Whitney was the organizer of the Boston Elevated Railroad Company, a successor of the West End Street Railway. It was largely his efforts which obtained a five-cent fare for the public, which was then accustomed to paying twenty cents.

For twenty years he was prominent in State and national politics. He was one of the most active workers in the country for redistricting with Canada.

CANDIDATE FOR GOVERNOR.

He was a candidate for Governor of Massachusetts in 1907, and in that campaign he was the subject of a fierce attack by Thomas W. Lawson, who accused him of being a lobbyist. He was defeated in that campaign by former Governor Curtis Guild.

It was in the course of his successful furtherance of closer reciprocity with Canada that he clashed with President Roosevelt. As a result, the President applied to him the short expressive word which gave him a place in the Annapolis Club.

Until the time of his retirement many years ago, Mr. Whitney was an active captain of industry and a progressive, public spirited citizen. His first civic activity in Boston was construction of the Beacon street boulevard. The famous street was then a lane.

WAS SHIP PRESIDENT.

Mr. Whitney was president of three steamship companies, which were notable among his long list of industrial interests. He presided over the destinies of the Metropolitan Steamship Company for more than twenty years, being succeeded at the same time with the New-England Steamship Company, a director of the American Express Company and the Boston & Maine Railroad, and president of the Asbestos Wood Company, the Asbestos Mines and the American Asbestos Company, the Dominion Coal Company, the Massachusetts Pipe Line Gas Company, the New England Gas & Coke Company, and the Dominion Iron & Steel Company.

He is survived by four daughters, a son, and four sisters. Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Harvard Congregational Church.

MARY GARDEN HEARD IN 'LOVE OF 3 KINGS'

By ZOE FAHER.

"The Love of Three Kings" (Monsieur) was put on by the Chicago Opera last night and was given a warm reception by Boston. It is a story that abounds in tragedy and has not the slightest touch to relieve the sombre effect of the whole. Nevertheless, the music is fine and it must be said that it was remarkably well done.

Virgilio Lazzari as Archibald, the blind king, was a figure of tremendous virility. His voice rang out with a resonance that was quite wonderful and his acting was superb. Staggering about the stage with uncertain footsteps, he managed to convey suspicion and hate, a determination for vengeance that was penetrating in the extreme. It was a remarkable presentation on the part of Mr. Lazzari.

Mary Garden sang Flora and she made of the faithless wife a woman from whom one's eyes did not wander for a moment. It is a part that calls for as much, if not more, of the highest ability to act as well as to sing. It is almost superfluous to add that not a possibility to invigorate the part was overlooked by Miss Garden.

Georges Baklanoff sang the role of Manfred, the unloved husband. Mr. Baklanoff's voice was particularly fine and he was given, in several very long arias, opportunities that were golden. He made excellent use of them. Giulio Crimi sang Avito, the lover, and his voice was satisfactory if a bit light for the role. It is an exhausting one that almost requires a tenor robustus.

Under the magic baton of Mr. Polacco, the orchestra revived and played as well as always play under a conductor who is a genius. "The Valkyrie" (Wagner) with Cyrene Van Guedon and Forrest Lamont with Mr. Polacco will be sung tonight.

Do You Eat Enough Bacon?

Bacon is the most unusual of all foods. It is a tonic, the highest form of nutriment and, when it's Ferris Bacon, the fullest and most delightful flavor you can buy in the whole calendar of meats!

For the good of your health you really ought to have some Ferris Bacon every day. With eggs, of course. Over the breast of fowl, always. Delicious en brochette with oysters or chicken livers. With scallops or fish it brings out flavor. And every way it aids digestion.

If you would enjoy the real old-fashioned bacon flavor that's been famous for half a century ask your butcher for Ferris Bacon.

NIGHTLY JAM AT SULLIVAN SQ. STIRS PROTEST

Aroused to indignation by conditions at Sullivan square, residents of Somerville, Arlington, Medford, Malden, Stoneham and other communities are raising a storm of protest.

During the attempts to board surface cars at the terminal during rush hours have degenerated into a survival of the fittest, outraged commuters are threatening to go to the Legislature for relief.

WINDOWS SHATTERED.

Park street, Harvard square and Dudley street are said to be calm and peaceful compared to Sullivan square, where shattered car windows, torn clothing and bruised bones are the nightly rule.

To the weak, the timid and the crippled, Sullivan square, between the hours of 5 and 6 at night, has become a booby, a horrible nightmare, toward which they venture with fear and trembling.

A recent instance of the mad tactics employed by commuters was afforded in the experience of Miss Betty Sawyer, twenty-five years old, of No. 26 Gould street, Stoneham. Miss Sawyer was knocked down and trampled on, but managed to regain her feet, and was swept into a car. A short time later she collapsed on the car from a strained neck and other injuries.

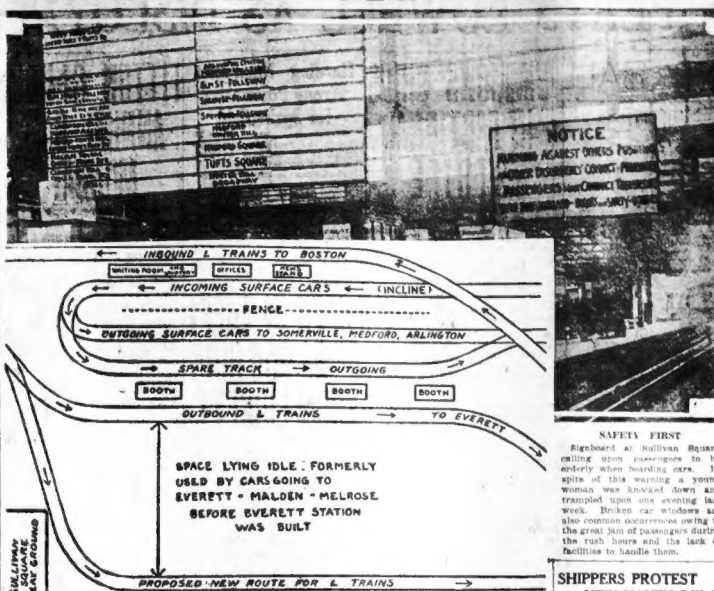

CONDITIONS GROW WORSE.

One "old timer," who has used the Sullivan square terminal since it was opened, told the American conditions were actually growing worse. "When I can't get on a car," said he, "conditions are pretty bad. The other night I was forced to watch three cars come in and go out, and was unable to get within twenty-five feet of them. The crowds push off the Elevated trains and fill the entire platform. The minute a surface car comes in, there is a rush, and before help the person caught in it who loses his or her foot. Doors are jammed, windows broken and it seems as though the car would be split open by the masses of humanity crowded into them."

SOLUTION OFFERED.
"It doesn't make any difference what the destination of the car may be, with the possible exception of the Feltway line. They seem to get a little better service than the others, but are crowded just the same."

One suggestion which has been offered to relieve present conditions is meeting with great favor on the part of a number of commuters. Briefly this suggestion provides that the incoming Elevated tracks be moved over to the edge of the terminal.

PROPOSED RELIEF ON "L"

HOW RELAY TRACKS WOULD RELIEVE CONGESTION

The above diagram shows a proposed plan to relieve congestion at the Sullivan square terminal. Since the Everett station was built one side of the Charlestown terminal has been lying idle. This would wipe out the old "L" tracks and give that space over to the new "L" tracks for surface car room for Somerville, Arlington and Medford cars. The space could be utilized either for tracks or platform, as the case may require, both of which are badly needed for the rush hour at the terminal.

mineral on the Everett side, a part of the Sullivan square playground being taken for that purpose, if necessary. This would then provide a considerable space formerly used by surface car tracks before the Elevated extension was opened.

In this space it would be possible to lay a number of surface car tracks, on which additional cars could be run in and out during the rush hour, thereby relieving the present tremendous pressure, or at least provide more platform room. Another plan offered would utilize the old tracks on the Everett side without touching the elevated structure, by making an incline to the Somerville instead of the Everett side as at present.

WORKERS GIVEN PLANT VALUED AT MILLION

New York, Jan. 25.—Another millionaire, the third within the month, is going to hand over a thriving business to employees.

I. Heller, head of the dress manufacturing firm of I. Heller & Company, No. 136 West Thirty-second street, was very happy when he told how he had turned it over to his employees who have worked and helped him to develop it, he said.

"It is not for the sake of hoarding wealth for myself that God let me live and prosper. Not for a million for me, and I am now fulfilling that mission, or just of it."

HAD IDEA FOR YEARS.
Mr. Heller said the idea of turning his firm over to his employees occurred to him several years ago. He said that he had not done so earlier because he wanted to see the factory thoroughly established first, he added.

"I have always looked upon my employees as a father looks upon his children, and I want to see them enjoy the results of their faithful labor before I die."

"I don't believe this movement is going to stop with me. I know several men who have been working in the plant since the day of turning their wealth over to those who have helped them make it."

While Mr. Heller was telling his story, sixty-five busy and alert employees went about the business with an inspiration that was noticeable, Mr. Heller explained.

BASED ON SERVICES.
"Suppose we make $100,000 profit this year. This will be divided among every member of the firm. There will be a committee to apportion it."

"Some employees may get as much as 25 per cent. of their wages, while others may get but 15 or 10 per cent. It is dependent on the value of the services rendered."

VISITORS DENIED

Lawrence, Jan. 25.—Officials of the Lawrence jail have received orders to allow no one to visit John E. Merrick, alleged to be implicated in the Ward Hill dynamite conspiracy, but his wife and cousin, Merrick, who was arrested by the Haverhill police and held in default of $40,000 at the Lawrence jail, will be tried next Tuesday on two charges involving the attempt to dynamite the Knickerbocker shoe plant at Ward Hill.

HARVARD ALUMNI ORGAN FLAYS LOWELL AS DISLOYAL

ATTACKED FOR NEGRO BAN

Phrased of Policy Seen in Refusal of Equal Opportunity to All

After denouncing President Lowell as positively disloyal to university ideals and traditions, the Harvard Alumni Bulletin, the official publication of the Alumni Association, and of Associated Harvard Clubs, makes a severe attack on the university executive who is fighting for Europe.

It is further with the news of the ban on the admission of colored students to the university.

The Alumni Bulletin, in a letter, advocates that the candidates for the board of trustees should be of the type of the university, and that the board should be of the type of the university.

Harding Nominates Wrong Postmaster for Springfield

Washington, Jan. 26.—Although the President has nominated C. G. Simpson as postmaster at Springfield, Mass., Mr. Kirk Kayser is expected to get the job.

Officials said that "evidently a mistake had been made," as Mr. Simpson had withdrawn as a candidate for the office. It is understood that Speaker Gillett, whose home is in Springfield, recommended Mr. Kayser.

Albert Pierce was named postmaster at Salem, Mass.

FREED IN THEFT OF $3,000 RING FROM LIGGETT

William M. Keenan, twenty-nine years old of No. 48 Fourth street, South Boston, is today cleared of charges of "receiving" a $3,000 diamond ring stolen from the residence of Louis K. Liggett by James Mulvaney, the "diamond thief."

Mulvaney was brought from State Prison to testify in the theft and disposition of the ring, and a jury in the Superior Criminal Court found Keenan, who is a salesman for a firm of jewelers, not guilty of the charge.

Keenan said an acquaintance named Meany showed him the ring and asked him to appraise it. He finally asked him to get an offer for the ring. Keenan got an offer of $1,000 and the deal was put through. Keenan heard nothing about it until a year later, when he was notified by a lawyer that the ring had been stolen.

CONTRACTOR HAS SLEEPING SICKNESS

Pawtucket, R. I., Jan. 26.—Willard A. Lent, vice-president of the Willard Construction Co., contractor, is at the Memorial Hospital suffering from a form of sleeping sickness. He has been unconscious for a protracted period.

NEW PLAN TRIED

Now, 200 Simmons girls are divided alphabetically into groups of thirty each with a leader. Group letters are both day students and "dorm" students are in the groups. This is the beginning of the reorganization.

The girls have had a little student government body along with the "Freshman Bible" given at the beginning of the year to each new student with all the college lore, rules and good advice.

"At any rate, the effort is drawing the day girls and dorm girls together. It shows both sides that the other is interested in the trials and tribulations of the college," declared the girls on the reorganization committee.

Electricity Price Lowered

Wallace B. Conant, chairman of the Municipal Light Board in Concord, announces a reduction in the price of electricity of 1 1/2 cents per kilowatt, beginning with the next quarter.

FITTON CLUB'S ANNUAL BALL MONDAY

The Fitton Athletic Club of East Boston will hold their fifteenth annual reunion and dance with a "bat-tle of music" in the Crescent Gardens ballroom, Monday evening.

The event is an annual affair and brings together all the members past and present for a grand reunion.

The Fitton club is well known throughout New England for its activities in sport and has brought distinction to East Boston with its successful football and basketball teams.

Their football team won the independent amateur championship for three years and were defeated this year for the first time for these honors by the two star athletes of South Boston. That the affair will be a grand success is assured and is due to the untiring efforts of the committee which comprises William Fitzgerald, chairman; Arthur Hurley, treasurer; Walter Bennett, secretary; William Sullivan, George Allevessen, John Dorgan, Dennis Murphy, Neal O'Rourke, Edward Crawford, Andrew Dunn, James Fox, Gardner Quinn, Joseph Gorman, Daniel Doherty, Henry Wellings and Charles Fero.

COAL MEN FORCED TO OBEY CONTRACTS

Central Falls, R. I., Jan. 26.—Senator John J. Barry, first administrator for this city, is compelling coal dealers here to live up to the letter of their contracts. A number of coal men who were found to have delivered soft coal in place of charcoal were obliged to remove the coal from the cellars of the purchasers and refund their money.

WINCHESTER TO HEAR PROBLEMS OF B. & M.

Two interesting discussions on the present railroad situation, as applied to the B. & M. and on the coal situation, will be held in Winchester Sunday, Robert H. Newcomb, assistant to the president of the Boston & Maine, will discuss the problems of the road, especially in relation to transportation, at the Pine Congregational Church at the morning session.

At the community group meeting in the evening in Waterfall Hall, Church street, under the auspices of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Mrs. Marion Dickerman of the Bryn Mawr faculty will discuss the coal situation, the problems of industry and the problems of road workers.

DECLARES KU KLUX WARNINGS BOGUS

Woonsocket, Jan. 26.—Ailing Klux Klan warnings recently received by State Senator Patrick J. Cox of Woonsocket are bogus, according to a letter he received from Birmingham, N. Y. The letter further adds that other letters sent to persons in this city during the past few weeks were not from any Klansman.

Senator Cox refused to say by whom the letter was written nor whether he would be the victim. He asserted, however, he made known the denial only to put at ease persons who had received threatening epistles.

DR. MAGRATH CAN'T LIVE ON $5,000 AND FEES

MEDICAL EXAMINER ASKS FOR $1,000 INCREASE

G. Burgess Magrath wants more money. This will excite no astonishment in the breasts of those who are familiar with the reactions of the medical examiner of the Northern Suffolk district.

He is difficult, retiring, the set-down comes out from the shell of retirement. But wherever he does, it has something to do with money.

G. Burgess Magrath has gone to the Mayor and asked for $6,000 a year instead of the $5,000 he now gets.

The law specifically provides that the Suffolk County medical examiner shall receive from the county a salary of $5,000 a year.

There are two. The other is Dr. Timothy Leary. He has also asked for an increase in salary.

GET RAISE IN 1919. In 1919, G. Burgess Magrath was being paid $4,000 a year. Mayor Peters concurred in a legislative act granting him an increase of $1,000 a year to the present total of $5,000.

By the very nature of their position, Drs. Magrath and Leary figure in the public prints. It is interesting to the people of Suffolk County who pay the bills of the county and the salaries of the medical examiners, to note how the two examiners figure in the public prints.

There is an item about Dr. Leary's official salary being offered $10,000 to the public.

And there is an item about the Finance Commission charging Dr. Magrath with unnecessary employment of his sister, Ethel Magrath, as an accountant in his office.

There is an item in which Dr. Leary urges a ban against indiscriminate use of drugs by physicians.

And one in which the Finance Commission disallows estimates of Dr. Magrath of $22,775 for increase of pay for two clerical assistants receiving $1,200 a year. The investigation of the Finance Commission found that similar assistants in the office of the Medical Examiner were paid only $120 and $125 a year respectively.

DOES OUTSIDE WORK. There is an item in which Dr. Leary is praised by the eminent physician, Dr. Wood Hutchinson, for his work during the influenza epidemic in 1918.

And one in which Dr. Magrath complains to the city auditor because he is not allowed $150 per day. Instead of $5 per day for the use of his automobile for transportation in the line of official duty.

The news print record shows that while Dr. Leary was busy with his duties and lectures in Boston, Dr.

GENEVA MITCHELL IS 'POGO' GIRL AND 'BOB' SAVAGE DIVORCED

New York, Jan. 25.—Geneva Mitchell, daughter of "Pogo" girl, was granted a final decree annulling her marriage to Robert "Bob" Savage, former Yale student.

Miss Mitchell was out in court as she is with the "Sally" company playing at the Colonial Theatre, Chicago.

The signing of the decree by Supreme Court Justice Tierney marks the final chapter in Geneva Mitchell's fast and furious marriage with "Bob" of Yale, who gave her a $100,000 divorce for tips.

The girl sprang into prominence by her beauty as the Yale "Pogo" girl in England. She was featured along the New American Theatre.

Bob Savage, son of a proud and wealthy family, gained from the first fight. In a subsequent courtship he gained her consent to marry him.

Miss Mitchell was just seventeen when her husband at the Hotel Hotel more lasted three days.

The couple soon separated. He wanted his way to Alaska to throw off the curse of the too-hasty marriage. Miss Mitchell, however, for an equivalent set in April, 1922.

GIRL TORN BY DOGS CRAWLS TO HOME

Albion, N. Y., Jan. 24.—Horribly bitten all over her body by three dogs which attacked her in a woods while she was on her way to school, Julia Scheriff, nine, crawled a quarter of a mile to her home and limped unaided on the lawn.

She was taken to Cooper Hospital by Dr. Howard Westcott of Chemung, Pa., where she is recovering from her wounds. Her condition is reported as serious.

Nearby found the dogs in the woods and killed them. The townsfolk were summoned to determine if they had rabies.

While Dr. Magrath is preparing figures to justify his request for an increase, Dr. Leary, it is said, is at work upon a new vaccine for his own blood for the battle against a dread disease.

In the appropriation bill for 1923, Dr. Magrath was allowed $13,332 for personal services. Dr. Leary was allowed only $1,725. For services other than personal Dr. Magrath was allowed $4,025. Dr. Leary was given only $1,375. The total sum allowed Dr. Magrath was $19,432. Dr. Leary was allowed a total of $12,125. Dr. Magrath was allowed a secretary, executive clerk, custodian, deputy custodian and three assistants.

Dr. Leary was allowed only a chauffeur and two stenographers. And yet it is Dr. Magrath who petitions for an increase of $1,000 a year for his own salary and asks for another $1,000 for the upkeep of his apartment.

As far as it is known, Mayor Curley will not oppose the salary increase question. The Legislature, of course, will have to pass on it before it becomes a law.

BLIND YOUTH RECOVERING SIGHT AFTER PIG'S EYE OPERATION

GRAFTING PROCESS SUCCESS

Patient Already Able to Distinguish Between Darkness and Light

New York, Jan. 26.—The remarkable operation of grafting a pig's eye into the blind right eye of Alfred Lemonowicz, aged eighteen, will prove a success.

This was demonstrated today when the boy declared he was already able to distinguish lightness from darkness.

The bandages were temporarily removed and a black object passed before the eye operated upon. The boy said he saw something "dark." When it was removed he said he could see light again.

Dr. E. P. Morgan, who performed the operation two days ago, stated that after the grafted parts were thoroughly knitted to the boy's eye he would be able to see almost perfectly.

As he started the operation, Dr. Morgan suffered a slight mishap, a small artery being severed, which caused blood to spurt from the opening. The specialist used some absorbent cotton and absorbed the flow, after which he called to an assistant, Dr. J. J. Halman.

"Better let the pig go, it's no use. It is a failure with this boy I can't go on."

FEARED HOPE AT END

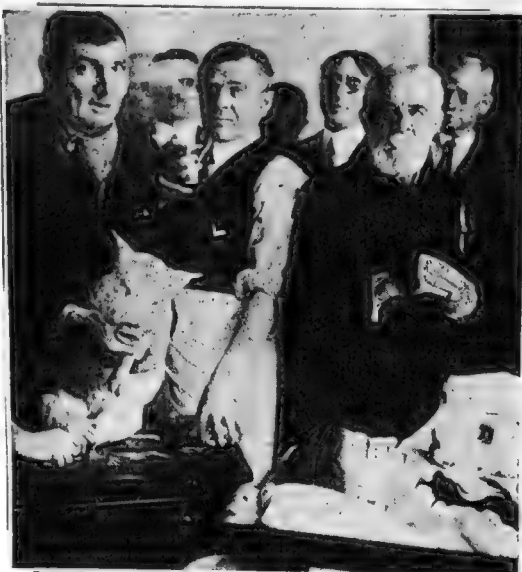

The boy for a moment lost his courage and self-control, though up to this time he had remained impassive. He said:

"Why did I go through all this? I might as well die now. Why, I'd go through anything if it could only be a success, doctor. Is all hope gone for me?"

Dr. W. H. Raubchuss, a cooperator, the one of Dr. Morgan's assistants, helped to calm the youth. After the nature of the blood flow ceased, Dr. Morgan announced he would continue.

With a tiny pair of surgical scissors he finished clipping the corner from the lad's eye, but by this time the effect of the cocaine was over, and Alfred asked to be held, as he could not endure the pain.

When the patient was in a more relaxed condition, Dr. Morgan continued the operation, the next step being to cut the pig's eye from its socket and to

An operation unique in the history of the medical profession was performed by Dr. Edward Morgan in Paterson, N. J., when he grafted the eye of a pig in the head of Alfred Lemonowicz. The boy has been sightless for many years. Dr. Morgan, who performed a similar operation some years ago was aided by Drs. Halman, Raubchuss and Cooper, all of Paterson. The sightless eye of the boy was removed from its socket, and the eye of the pig grafted in its place. Dr. Morgan is of the belief that within a week or two the boy will have regained the sight in the eye, and it is possible that a second operation will be performed on the other optic.

Alfred gasped from the pain and asked for more cocaine, but the surgeon told him this was now impossible and he gave up as it was nearly ended.

ENGAGED PAIR TO TEST LOVE AMONG LEPERS

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 26.—Arthur Tansworth, Tyler of Worcester, Mass., and Miss Phila Canary of Memphis, had test their love in the leper colony of South America. Engaged to wed, the couple will, with other leper missionaries in the spring. After two years they will be married.

If the health of one or the other fails during that period, the engagement will be broken and the one who remains healthy will "carry on."

"Duty comes first," says Miss Canary in discussing the possibility of failing a victim to the dread disease.

"Love will never die," she continues. "It is the same in the wilderness as in the paternal homes of wealth. The more love is surrounded by hardships and suffering the stronger it should become."

Mac Canary and Tyler met while they were preaching themselves to be up over work among the sufferers of South America.

PROVIDENCE GETS MURDER SUSPECT

Providence, R. I., Jan. 25.—Herbert Apone, wanted on charges of the murder of Charles J. McDermott on December 16 last, is on his way to Providence from Tucson, Arizona, under guard of police inspectors. McDermott was found dead, with a broad knife stuck in his back in a rooming house on Bradford street.

Apone, who is under indictment for violating the narcotic laws, disappeared his wife and Elizabeth Tier can in whose room the murder occurred were arrested charged with being immoral persons. They are out under bonds.

If I could know the uttermost of my life I would take and live it. I would do so, but I am simply too tired to let it pass with the minimum of pain, expecting that such minutes will be my last. I am interested to see how long I can keep my mind concentrated, so, dear readers (as the time grows away) forgive the detour; I am coming to my real subject in a moment.

When the pain is most severe I cannot help but get sidetracked. Even my metaphors are getting mixed (I can't stop now, but I'm afraid I must). Only a spasm and now I will resume.

50 P. C. of Ware High Boys Are Reported Nicotine Victims

Ware, Jan. 26.—A drastic anti-cigarette campaign, aimed at boys under sixteen, has been launched by the police and school authorities. Dr. L. E. Dione, school physician, reported that in an examination of 100 boys, 50 per cent. were suffering from excessive use of tobacco.

One boy's pulse registered 135. Many boys admit smoking cigarettes, and say that they buy them from dealers. Others say they get them from older boys.

So open had the smoking become that one boy refused to work in class-room until he was given permission to smoke.

Watch over herself will be told to move by her self, when the remainder of the extraordinary document she scribbled on her nurse's chart book is reproduced in these columns.

MOTHER AND "LOST" GIRL REUNITED

MRS. CHARLES RAFFERTY
The former Marie Louise Henderson of Everett, who vanished from home three years ago, was found a happy bride in Foxboro through a story of her disappearance published in the Boston American. Finding to get a position on the stage, the girl was too proud to return home, became a nurse and was wooed by her husband while nursing his mother.

DURANT OFFERS $1,000,000 FOR FISHER BODY

New York, Jan. 26.—William C. Durant, president of General Motors Corporation, announced that he was ready to pay $1,000,000 cash or $200 a share, for the entire $90,000 shares of outstanding common stock of the Fisher Body Corporation, a subsidiary of General Motors.

The announcement followed close on Tuesday's sharp break in the stock market, and was interpreted as a move to get control of the corporation and reports from Detroit that "large New York interests" were working on it.

A representative of Mr. Durant said the offer was one that applied to the acquisition of complete control from which it was inferred that the floating supply of common stock, which is not large, would not be purchased at the price then quoted. It was added, however, that this was a matter which might be considered at a later time.

So far as is known the entire common stock of the Fisher Body Corporation is not in the market for purchase. At the present time the common outstanding amounts to 8,000 shares, of which 500 are held by the General Motors Corporation and about 10,000 in the Fisher family. The floating supply has been further cut down through the issuance recently of participation units, issued pursuant to the public sale of the Durant Corporation against full shares of Fisher Body stock.

It is generally believed that stock held by General Motors and the Fisher family is not for sale.

'LESS LAW, MORE GOSPEL' CURE FOR DIVORCE

By International News Service.
Washington, Jan. 26.—"More gospel and less law" This was the rule Mrs. Alice Robertson, Congresswoman from Oklahoma, offered again for riding the country of the "divorce evil."

"You can't stop hasty and foolish marriages or prevent divorce by legislation," she said, in voluntary testimony to the Senate Judiciary committee on the divorce bill.

"That measure is un-American," she added.

Furthermore, Mrs. Robertson does not believe any change can be brought about in marriage customs until men fill society with the "divorce law." "That measure is un-American," she added.

GIRL GONE 3 YEARS IS WED

Found After Story of Disappearance is Published in Boston American

The gray-haired, trembling little mother, who for three years has haunted the hospitals, morgues, undertaking establishments, courts and the theatrical agencies in search of her missing daughter, has found the "little girl" at last.

The long, weary quest of the mother, Mrs. Catherine Henderson, of No. 61 Irving street, Everett, for Marie Agnes Henderson ended in Foxboro. She found her the wife of Charles Rafferty of that town.

Mother and daughter were reunited through a story published in the Boston American. A Foxboro resident of the American saw a picture in this newspaper. He recognized her as Mrs. Henderson and wrote to her.

WAS STAGE STRUCK

Mrs. Agnes Henderson was seventeen years old three years ago when she left her parents, baby sister and brother to seek a position on the stage. She was then in New York.

Her brother went to New York and visited theatrical agencies and elsewhere. He found her in a rooming house in New York. She was then in New York.

Roxbury Resident Declares City Fuel Committee Too Busy to Listen

"Screenings," or to be exact, coal dust, at $1 per hundredweight.

That is what is being sold to some Roxbury residents in lieu of coal, according to Abraham Shale, president and treasurer of the Rite Shoe Company, Inc., of No. 621 Allen street, owner of a shoe store at No. 21 Rite Hill avenue.

And furthermore, according to Mr. Shale, the Boston City Fuel Committee did not have time to hear his complaint in the matter, although he waited at the office, 1673 Commercial, for a half hour.

Asked why he waited, he said: "I went to a yard on Carey street, and I saw a man who was selling coal. I asked him for a few pounds of coal. He said that the price was $1 per bag. I paid for it and took it home."

"Then I went to the yard, where there were several others, and I saw a man who was selling coal. I asked him for a few pounds of coal. He said that the price was $1 per bag. I paid for it and took it home."

Roxbury Resident Declares City Fuel Committee Too Busy to Listen

"Screenings," or to be exact, coal dust, at $1 per hundredweight.

That is what is being sold to some Roxbury residents in lieu of coal, according to Abraham Shale, president and treasurer of the Rite Shoe Company, Inc., of No. 621 Allen street, owner of a shoe store at No. 21 Rite Hill avenue.

And furthermore, according to Mr. Shale, the Boston City Fuel Committee did not have time to hear his complaint in the matter, although he waited at the office, 1673 Commercial, for a half hour.

Asked why he waited, he said: "I went to a yard on Carey street, and I saw a man who was selling coal. I asked him for a few pounds of coal. He said that the price was $1 per bag. I paid for it and took it home."

BLIND YOUTH RECOVERING SIGHT AFTER PIG'S EYE OPERATION

GRAFTING PROCESS SUCCESS

Patient Already Able to Distinguish Between Darkness and Light

New York, Jan. 25.—The remarkable operation of grafting a pig's eye into the blind right eye of Alfred Lemkowicz, aged eighteen, will prove a success.

This was demonstrated today when the boy declared he was already able to distinguish lightness from darkness.

The surgeons were temporarily removed and a black object passed before the eye operated upon. The boy said he saw something "dark."

When it was removed he said he could see light again.

Dr. E. H. Morgan, who performed the operation two days ago, stated that after the grafted parts were thoroughly initiated to the boy's eye he would be able to see almost perfectly.

As he started the operation, Dr. Morgan suffered a slight mishap, a small artery being severed, which caused blood to spurt from the opening.

The specialist used some absorbent cotton and absorbed the flow, after which he called to an assistant, Dr. J. J. Halman:

"Better let the pig go. He's no use. It is a failure with this boy. I can't go on."

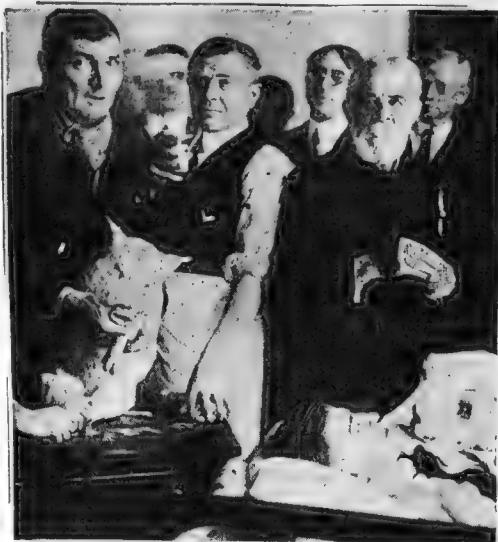

FEARED BLOOD AT END.
The boy for a moment lost his courage and self-control, though up to this time he had remained in his room.

"Why did I go through all this? I'd go through anything if it could only be a success, doctor. Is all hope gone for me?"

Dr. W. H. Raubach, a physician, the son of Dr. Morgan's assistant, helped to calm the youth. After five minutes the blood flow ceased and Dr. Morgan announced he would continue.

With a tiny pair of surgical forceps he finished clipping the corner from the left eye, but by this time the effect of the cocaine was gone and Alfred asked to be held, as he could not endure the pain.

WONDERED FROM PAIN.
When the patient recovered consciousness the Morgan boy said he returned to view the operation of the doctor. But he did not know what

An operation unique in the history of the medical profession was performed by Dr. Edward Morgan at Providence, N. J., when he grafted the eye of a pig in the head of Alfred Lemkowicz. The boy has been sightless for many years. Dr. Morgan, who performed a similar operation six years ago was aided by Mrs. Haiman, Raubach and Cooper, all of Providence. The sightless eye of the boy was removed from its socket, and the eye of the pig grafted in its place. Dr. Morgan is of the belief that within a week or two the boy will have regained the sight in the eye, and it is possible that a second operation will be performed on the other eye.

After Alfred moved from the pain and asked for more cocaine and the surgeons tried to hold him down as he was in pain. He said he was in pain and asked for more cocaine. He said he was in pain and asked for more cocaine.

The last time I was finally in pain and Alfred was a dear friend. He said he was in pain and asked for more cocaine. He said he was in pain and asked for more cocaine.

KILLS SPARROWS BY USE OF SALT
Middleton, N. J., Jan. 25.—When a man was found to have killed a large number of sparrows by using salt, he was arrested.

When the police arrived at the home of the man, they found a large number of dead sparrows. The man said he had killed them with salt.

ENGAGED PAIR TO TEST LOVE AMONG LEPERS

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 25.—Alfred Thompson, 21-year-old of Worcester, Mass., and Miss Ethel Canary of Providence, R. I., are engaged to be married.

Engaged to wed, the couple will sail with other leper missionaries in the spring. After two years they will be married.

If the health of one or the other fails during that period, the engagement will be broken and the one who remains healthy will "carry on."

"Duty comes first," says Miss Canary in discussing the possibility of failing a victim to the dread disease.

"Love will never die," she continues. "It's the same in the wilderness as in the peaceful home of a wife with the more joy in being surrounded by hardships and suffering the more she would love to be with her."

PROVIDENCE GETS MURDER SUSPECT
Providence, R. I., Jan. 25.—Herbert Adams, wanted on charges of the murder of Charles J. McDermott on June 18 last, is on his way to Providence from Tucson, Arizona.

Under guard of police inspectors Adams was found dead, with a small knife stuck in his back in a rooming house on Bradford street.

Adams, who is under indictment for violating the narcotic laws, disappeared five weeks and Elizabeth Tier, in whose room the murder occurred, were arrested charged with being immoral persons. They are out under bonds.

ing his symptoms as I am doing now.

If I could know the afternoon when I could take and live I would do so but I am simply hoping the "bad year" or rather, hoping numb mind sufficiently to let it pass with the minimum of pain, expecting that each minute will be my last. I am intended to see how long I can keep my mind concentrated, so dear readers (as the dime novels say), forgive the despatch. I am coming to my real subject in a moment.

When the pain is most severe I cannot help but get distracted. Even my metaphors are getting mixed. It can't stop now, but I'm afraid I must. Only a spoon and now I will resume.

50 P. C. of Ware High Boys Are Reported Nicotine Victims

Ware, Jan. 25.—A drastic anti-cigarette campaign, aimed at boys under sixteen, has been launched by the police and school authorities.

Dr. L. E. Dione, school physician, reported that in an examination of 100 boys, 50 per cent. were suffering from excessive use of tobacco.

One boy's pulse registered 135. Many boys admit smoking cigarettes, and say that they buy them from dealers. Others say they get them from older boys.

So open had the smoking become that one boy refused to work in class-room until he was given permission to smoke.

FAVORABLE CONDITIONS FOR GREAT GOLD SKATES RACES

SURFACE AT NEW FIELD IS CLEARED

By CHARLES E. PARKER.
Greater Boston's greatest winter sport, the GOLD SKATES RACES, with 3,100 of the boys and girls of this season entered, gets underway at Franklin Field on Saturday.

All day yesterday Boston's Park Department men, with their chainsaws, cut away the old, rotten, and recent coating of snow from the skating rink. The work will be finished by 10 o'clock. The rink will be a surface of pure ice. The weather has been so good that the temperature will be below 10 degrees, which will prevail tonight.

This is a reasonably certain that a favorable condition for the skaters will be met tomorrow.

And if the weather man is correct, skaters watching the races will be able to see their skates and not too cold a temperature in the rink.

Tomorrow's races will be the first of the season.

"Try To Hit It" THE BULSEYE BY NICK FEATLEY

"STRIKE me, please," said our English visitor, "but those who play American are the greatest. I'm a drinker, I've seen, instead of sipping off a cup of tea, don't the bloomers boulder up and lose off, one after another, any number of words, one would believe they were in a bind, with their hair and hair and hair."

Your friends, who are keenly aware of your good homelife, and you are equally keen for fair play. I'm told that sweet girls of all ages, of charms and of grace galore, have practiced their tricks. But your answer was "No!" and most certainly entered them a bore.

I'd like to meet up with you, Nicky. I'm sure you would never be rude. You might be, in the end, something more than a friend. I am waiting with hope.

Don't blame me for wanting to change that name, though.

An Engrossing Story of Southern California by the Author of
"Kindred of the Dust"

The story opens on the Rancho Palomares, an extensive tract in Southern California. Old Don Miguel is buried alone on the heavily mortgaged rancho with only his last faithful retainer, Pablo Arceles, and the late's expensive wife, receives a telegram from the War Department at Washington announcing the death in battle in Siberia of his only son, "Don Mike." The shock kills him. Don Mike arrives and finds a family of Parkers there, including a beautiful daughter, Kay. Mr. Parker is scheming to get the ranch and sell it to the Japanese. Don Mike asks him to bid on it and then refuses to sell. Kay gives Bill Conway money to go on building a dam on the ranch. She becomes jealous of a girl neighbor of Don Mike's.

It is a Cosmopolitan Production, direction of Frank Borzage, and featuring Forrest Stanley and Marjorie Daw. It is released as a Paramount picture.

Peggy Finds a Queer Little Tenant Under the Live Oak.

MY. How Peggy did squeal when she spied the sand under the live oak tree flying into the air. Back, back, back, back, coming up to see the occasion of the noise.

"See? Peggy squealed. "See that sand flying in the air? Isn't it too funny for words? Look's just like the sand flying from under Daddy's back tire on these Florida roads. What in the world right there where they joined to his head, were two bright eyes like tiny bafts. They looked from Peggy, then Mr. Doodlebug began to back away quickly.

"Don't be frightened, little Doodlebug said kindly. "I saw that sand flying for the world. Peggy doesn't live in Florida, and has never seen a doodle-bug before."

"Land-o-goodness!" exclaimed Mr. Doodle-bug, stepping back can't it be, Jack?"

"Blimey! Don't laugh too loud or you'll scare him back," Jack whispered. "It's a 'hoodie-bug,' as we call 'em alive. Don't make any noise and he'll come up. Then we can see him."

The said began to fly by ones more. Two tiny feet appeared, more-and-more flew, then came two more feet. More said flew, then out hopped the queerest little bug-foggy bird ever seen. Its body was formed by joints. The odd little head sat on a queer little neck, so that it could be turned to look in all directions. Its body was several times larger than its head, and looked terribly ridiculous—something like Mr. Toad's snit,

WINCARNIS Was the Only Thing That Seemed to Do Mrs. Hueston Good

"Before taking Wincnairs, I was completely run down. My nerves were in an awful state. I was so nervous and so badly that gas would form around my heart, causing it to palpitate. I could neither eat nor sleep. I was so nervous I took a small bottle of Wincnairs and it seemed to do me good. After taking a large bottle in a week I began to feel much better. I was able to eat and rest much more. and my nerves were no longer so nervous. I took another bottle. I feel better. I had four more. Wincnairs is certainly the best thing I have ever taken."

The long and patient methods of education to which a green race-horse is subjected were unknown on the Rancho Palomar. The starting-gate bothered him at first, but after half a dozen trials, he re-

BEAUTY
By Maria Jeritzka

(The Famous Prima Donna of the Metropolitan Opera Company and One of the Most Beautiful Women of the Day.)

HOW shall I get thin? It seems to be the wall of a goodly proportion of the feminine population of the world, especially in America, where excessive avoirdupois is rightly looked upon with keen disfavour. Fatness is almost always a sign of laziness or food idolatry. And both of these traits are disagreeable to everyone in this wide-awake country and lead to loss of beauty.

In some cases, however, the agony of unhappiness experienced by the woman who wishes to get thin is needless. It is a mistake to think that unless you are as slim as an undeveloped girl of fifteen that you are fat. The flapper type can never be accepted as a model of perfected womanly loveliness. The Venus of Milo, the Winged Victory and all other accepted models of beauty possess distinct curves.

May there not be just a hint of the hysterical in frantic struggle for extreme slimmest? And though your plucky, self-starvation may lead to the loss of pounds you have been decreed must go, is that reduction wise if it leaves you with less reserve nerve force and strength? For without these beauty is impossible.

If you really are too stout—undeniably so—your condition is abnormal and a menace to your health as well as to your beauty. In that case, do not delay. Place yourself under the direction of your physician, an expert gymnasium director or other scientific reducing expert and follow his directions.

But if you are just a little slower than you wish, and are merely beginning to take on weight, I would suggest that you think less about food. Find a hobby—golf, swimming, dancing, or plunge into the work of helping some pet charity which will keep you busy many hours a week. Become completely absorbed in this constructive work or play, and your appetite for more food than is good for you will fade into the background, where it belongs. You will eat to live, not live to eat.

Here is an exercise which is going to help you remove just that pound or so overweight from your hips, and which you will enjoy taking mornings in your room without windows wide open.

Stand perfectly erect, extend your right arm straight at the side, place your right hand upon a mantelpiece, chair, or other support.

COLOR IN THE SKY

By Garrett P. Serviss

"I remember when a boy my father observed the setting sun at all seasons and foretold the changes of the seasons remarkably well."

"If the sun were red on a cold day, the following day would be warm."

"Red sunset on a warm day, continued warm."

"Yellow sunset on a warm day, continued warm."

"I have observed these conditions and there seems to be much truth in them. How is the sun's color connected with the weather?"

Red sunset on a cold day, followed by decrease of cold, and a clear, bright, casual connection with it, all, probably indicates that the redness in the western sky is due to a lower barometric pressure accompanied with increase of wind and clouds, and that the sunset, which obscures the position of all but the extreme red rays, is a sign of a change in the air and weather changes from red to yellow.

In a general sense, from sunset red to yellow, the weather would begin to pass over the plateau of observation in the course of the night or the next day, and a warm day would indicate that the

THE change in the sunset colors is due partly to alteration of the atmospheric refraction of the light, and partly to amount of moisture and impurities in the air. Both the sun and the moon look white when near the zenith, but on approaching the horizon the light must come to us through rela-lively great depth of air, they become yellow or even red. They show these colors in such circumstances because the yellow and red rays possess greater momentum and can pass through a greater depth of atmosphere without being extinguished than can the green and blue rays.

and atmospheric absorption in the production of the average colors of the sunset has been made, because the respective elements of the problem are too variable and uncertain. Meteorological works treat the subject in a very general, fragmentary manner.

FORBES' VIEWS ON FINANCE

By R. C. Forbes

Why do so many men fail to make headway in life? One point I have particularly in mind today is this: How do they handle their money?

The need for this is driven home to me every week of the year by letters and visits from men who seek advice on how to better their position. The all-around man of affairs is the man first himself in the future. He is not content to advance. They are eager to make a change. They are willing to switch into some other line of work, or they want to go into some other part of the country, or they want to start with some larger and more attractive concern.

But they are afraid to run the risk, or the cost of any such move would entail.

Because they have brought upon themselves, because of poverty conditions, they have had to turn upon their heels. They have had to turn upon their heels. They have had to turn upon their heels. They have had to turn upon their heels.

I will recall the mental discipline I want to use to build myself when I was in the very early years of my life. The discipline I used was this: I would not let myself be discouraged by any failure.

And I deliberately decided that it would be better in the long run to go without, so that I might have a chance to go farther.

Of late years I have been impressed by the large number of young men, both single and married, who have adopted a policy of "living on the edge" of their means.

The man who has consistently lived within his income, and who has saved, and who has accumulated money has no opportunity to come within the realm of the "living on the edge" of his means.

When I was young and ambitious, there is deeper satisfaction in the effort and saving than in self-indulgence and reckless spending.

In order to be able to accomplish a lot and to do it in the second half of life it is necessary for most of us to do nothing at all for the first half of life.

Therefore, if you are seriously ambitious, beware of starting upon "tomorrow." The great points of business are made by the man who is not content to advance.

Fisher Body Leaps Upward on Durand's $100,000,000 Offer to Get Stock

Fisher Body was the spectacular feature of an otherwise rather quiet New York market today, rising 1 point at 152 at the opening on an overnight announcement that W. C. Durant, automobile manufacturer, had offered to buy the outstanding stock of Fisher Body, which would involve an expenditure of about $100,000,000.

Fisher had several times in the past been bought up by other parties, but before now it had been sold at a low price, and it was not until 1916 that it was sold at a high price.

Outgoing prices were irregular, due to the fact that the market was not very active, and the prices were not very high.

Columbia Gas opened a point high at 114 1/2, and closed at 114 1/2. The market was not very active, and the prices were not very high.

Foreign exchange was not very active, and the prices were not very high.

'PARADES' WIN PLACE IN FILM

THREE courage to jump into the water of the Hudson river one cold day during the past week was the qualification that won three members of the Polar Bear Club a place in the film "The Polar Bear Club" which is now being shown at the Metropolitan Theatre. One of the scenes shows a replica of Robert Fulton's first steamship, the Clermont, as it rides up the Hudson. In this scene a summer elsewhere in the film is in contact with the story, and three of the characters jump overboard and frolic in the waters of the Hudson. Before this scene could be filmed it was necessary to find the actors who had the right of an old cold during the winter. They were eventually found in the ranks of the Polar Bear Club, which was organized by the late Dr. J. W. Brown, who was the first to jump into the water of the Hudson river one cold day during the past week.

PERSON AND WOMAN PLEASE IN CONCERTS

The annual banquet of the representatives of the Charles O. Clapp Company, prominent real estate brokers, was held Thursday evening at Hotel Bellevue. Over sixty representatives and alternates from all parts of New England were in attendance. Prior to the banquet a business session was held at which a number of addresses were made by branch office managers. Mr. Keizer, manager of the Haverhill office, gave the address of the evening, and his address was well received. Mr. Keizer, a property half sold, Mr. Houlman, manager of the Middlebury office, gave the address of the evening, and his address was well received. Mr. Keizer, a property half sold, Mr. Houlman, manager of the Middlebury office, gave the address of the evening, and his address was well received.

Another thing that was charming was the Ruff Gavotte and Minuet. It needed two minutes just like the above mentioned to make it. The pair, who studied here in their student days, they are sincere musicians without being flashy. They had a good house, but it is rather a pity that they should have had a vacant seat, for they are well worth one's time.
